

Printed Challis Dress

The challis used for this dress has a tan colored ground with a small design in dark red, and a net top lace in used in the form of a sailor collar. A plain silk, tan colored, like the challis, is used as a trimming. The black velvet loop pass through openings similar to buttonholes.

Dances

W. G. Wals's dance for his daughters, Miss Ethel and Miss Ellen, and also for their guest, Miss Adelaide McCallister, at the Toltice club on Tuesday, was one of the most brilliant and merry episodes of the week.

The Toltice never looked lovelier than in its decorations of pink Kiliary roses and similar. Everything seemed in such festive spirits that the "merry whirl" was general, and although it was not a late hour, the strains of "Home Sweet Home" rang out a little after one. The guests arrived at 8 and left at midnight, which is one of the reasons for the success of the ball, early hours and a delightful informality being among its attractions.

Miss Ethel Wals looked charming in her pink chiffon gown, heavily embroidered in pearls. A Juliet cap of pearls was very becoming to her dark hair and eyes.

Miss McCallister wore a lovely toilet of violet chamois. It was very simple, the top of the low bodice of shadow lace was heavily embroidered in pearls. The high waist line was defined by a band of purple velvet. She has exquisite coloring and lovely hair, which combined well with the simplicity of her gown.

Miss Ellen Wals was very stunning in her white chiffon gown, heavily trimmed in white silk lace. In her lovely rippling hair was a band of pearls and rhinestones and a sweeping white negligee. Her flowers were American Beauty roses.

Miss J. M. Turner, Mr. Wals's eldest daughter, looked like a debutante in an exquisite toilet of white chiffon combined with black silk lace, and her dark hair parted above her brows.

At 11 o'clock a buffet supper was served, the dancers deserting the supper room between courses for an additional whirl, the supper being served in the Toltice dining room. The center was a round table with pink tulle being draped from the chandelier to the edges. A large crystal bowl graced the center of the table.

Music was furnished by Fort Bliss orchestra.

About El Pasoans

Raymond Campbell, who has been quite ill at Berkeley, California, is steadily improving, and the doctors have decided that there is no tubercular trouble, but advise special attention to health and not overmuch study. Raymond is an El Paso boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Campbell, of North Kansas street, and has lived here all his life, graduating from the high school last May. He has been attending the University of California, at Berkeley.

"Summer Girls" Make A Hit At El Paso Theater; Local Talent

Summer girls, and some-are-not, but the summer girls in the "Summer Girls" Shrine play, at the El Paso theater, Wednesday night were with the accent on the verb.

It was the second shrine benefit to raise funds for the chorus accompaniment to the mecca of meccas in Shrineism, the meeting of the imperial council, which is to be held in Los Angeles in May. The musical comedy offering was staged by O. J. Jeanson, who gave the initial Shrine show two years ago and won friends immediately with his big, mellow voice and his bigger, broader smile.

The plot of any musical comedy is usually conspicuous by its presence elsewhere. The Shrine show was no exception. This made it all the more pleasing to the audience, which filled the El Paso theater from roof to orchestra pit. The plot proved a convenient setting for the chorus, which sang some of the cleverest stage groupings, chorus and ensemble pictures. The chorus grouping for the show with El Paso. The chorus composed of young society girls and boys was the most distinctive feature of the musical comedy. The plot of the musical comedy was a story of a young man who had been in the army and was now home, and he was looking for a girl to marry. The plot was a story of a young man who had been in the army and was now home, and he was looking for a girl to marry.

There was an abundance of local comedy throughout the play, including a little minstrel bit which was presented in the middle of the show with the chorus grouping for the show with El Paso. The chorus composed of young society girls and boys was the most distinctive feature of the musical comedy.

The musical numbers included the opening and closing chorus by the chorus, and a number of other songs, including "The Double Quartet" and "The Double Quartet".

Billie Wilson sang "Just a Dream of You," assisted by Miss Camille Kibler, and the company sang "The Double Quartet".

A stork shower was given Mrs. C. B. Ardoin, at her home in East El Paso, Tuesday afternoon by the members of the Aid society. Mrs. Ardoin received many very pretty articles. Refreshments of hot chocolate and cake were served during the afternoon. The guests were Messrs. H. W. Haskins, W. T. Talbert, S. S. Chalfant, J. M. Phillips, Ed L. Milligan, M. A. Orphan, A. R. Milligan, J. A. Orphan, W. A. Miller, A. R. Schuler, J. M. Jones, C. L. Baumstark and Mrs. John Quinn.

Miss Jane Arthur entertained about 20 of her friends with a Valentine party on Wednesday night at her home on Wyoming street.
